WASCLA Summit

Taking Action:

Making Inclusion a Reality

Wenatchee, WA

October 13-14, 2017

Please join us for our two-day, multidisciplinary language access conference. The Summit offers a unique opportunity to focus on critical issues impacting the ability of Washington's residents to live and thrive in communities across the state.

Washington welcomes immigrants and refugees from around the world, and promotes accessibility for residents with disabilities. The contributions of our diverse population are among Washington's major assets. Yet communication barriers continue to stand in the way of people with limited English proficiency and those who are Deaf or DeafBlind, creating difficulties in equitable access to healthcare, education, social services, programs and protections for workers, public health, courts, law enforcement, emergency services, and more.

This year, Governor Inslee declared Washington's commitment to be a state that values "Tolerance, Diversity, and Inclusiveness." Ensuring meaningful communication for all is at the core of this commitment. This year's Summit will include time to strategize and work together to plan the solutions we need to ensure meaningful communication for all.
