BUILDING A GRASS ROOTS NETWORK

WORKSHEET

Your Core Group members should be draw involve. Keep in mind that you want indiv represent - i.e., they belong to a union, sit of	on a key Committee, have access to the ngs. Or, they could be individuals who work
Essential Stakeholder Group	Potential Core Group member
and your timetable: e.g., the number of penetwork to work on specific priority issues  Step Two: Over the course of a year Grass Tops = people who have an establi	enlist about a dozen "Grass Tops." shed relationship with an elected official or or influence city or county, state, federal.
Elected Official/Decision-maker	Grass Top

-- Step Three: Identify the relevant constituency groups to which you have direct ties (faith-based, work, professional, community, sports, family, whatever...), and using

Constituency Group	"Peer" who invites them to join in etwork. You can use the "Do Yo	cocess that lasts as long as you keep adding to your u Know Who You Know" exercise when you meet ind that collectively you have connections to more etwork. You can use the "Do You ith groups of supporters; you'll focups and people than you think.  tep Four: Reach out to relevates to. E.g., depending on the issuilitary, senior citizen, business, or tetwork. You can use the "Do Yo ith groups of supporters; you'll froups and people than you think.  tep Four: Reach out to relevate to. E.g., depending on the issuilitary, senior citizen, business, or	nt groups in the community you don't already has, it could be a Rotary, Kiwanis, Junior League, or any group here-to-for not involved in your issue
etwork. You can use the "Do Yo ith groups of supporters; you'll foups and people than you think.  tep Four: Reach out to relevates to. E.g., depending on the issilitary, senior citizen, business, o.k.a. "odd couples"). This will a	nt groups in the community you don't already has, it could be a Rotary, Kiwanis, Junior League, or any group here-to-for not involved in your issue lso be an on-going process; re-visit often.
etwork. You can use the "Do Yo ith groups of supporters; you'll foups and people than you think.  tep Four: Reach out to relevates to. E.g., depending on the issilitary, senior citizen, business, o.k.a. "odd couples"). This will a	nt groups in the community you don't already has, it could be a Rotary, Kiwanis, Junior League, or any group here-to-for not involved in your issue lso be an on-going process; re-visit often.